Year-can (Chicanos), Puerto Rican, and Cuban are the 8 three origins on which data are sometimes reported. One cannot draw safe conclusions about future supplies of scientists and engineers on the basis of I aggregate demographic trends alone (see figure 1-It is important to disaggregate and examine 3). how students of different talents, sexes, race, and ethnicity flow through the education system to de-terminate how the talent pool for scientific and engineerin careers is formed and how degree g aspirations are realized. The future science and engineering work force be-gins with individual decisions to select and prepare for such a career. Among the factors that research-ers cite as being important to this decision (sum-marized in table 1-1) are gender, race or ethnicity, parental occupations and other family influences, socioeconomic status, kind of school attended and courses taken, teaching practices employed, students abilit and talent, type of undergraduate college at-y 1985 1990 1995200020052010 2015 2020 For most comparisons of student intentions, enrollments, and NOTE: Series 17 projections - middle fertility, middle mortality, high net im-degree-taking, data are not available at this level of detail.
