With the exception of a serious loss over a limited area occasioned by an unusual number of Chinch Bugs, the year has been characterized by exemption from marked insect injury. This is evidently due in a great measure to the peculiar climatic conditions which prevailed in different parts of the state during last spring and summer, and in part to the growing appreciation of modern methods of farming among our citizens. I believe, as time goes on, and the farmers of the state become more conversant with the life history and habits of our leading pests, such as the Chinch Bug, they will learn to adopt remedies and methods of prevention of injury which are suggested and will be able to largely control the attacks upon their crops. Naturally, emergencies will arise from time to time, unforeseen because it is impossible to predict...
